Garlough and Maclay Instructors in New Background Course.

OFFERED 2 TERMS

By ELLEN HARTMAN

A new science course, Introduction to the Natural Sciences, will be introduced into the University curriculum next fall, Dean Edgar A. Holt announced Wednesday. It will be a combination of the two required introductory courses of physical science and biology under Dr. William D. Maclay, assistant professor of physics, and Dr. Leslie N. Garlough, head of the science department.

"The course will be required of all liberal arts and non-professional students," Dr. Garlough said. "One year of physics, chemistry, botany or zoology, or ten hours of mathematics may be substituted for the natural science course. Credit for only one semester of study will not be allowed."

The goal sought in the combination of these sciences is to lead the students to an understanding of the fundamental concepts of the physical and biological sciences and an appreciation of their application to every-day life, Dr. Garlough declared. Members of the staff hope that the students will in this manner receive a general scientific background.

"There will be nothing in the course that is 'nice to know,' but only that which really functions and is of use to every-day life," explained Dr. Garlough.

The first semester, under the instruction of Dr. Maclay, will consist mainly of physics and

Annual Awaits Regents' Action

The student body decided by a five to one vote at the polls last Friday that Omaha University students should have a year book. The date set for advance subscription payments has been indefinitely postponed until the matter of the year book has been referred to the Board of Regents.

Faculty Building Given Hanging

Dr. Bertha Koch, head of the art department, and the girls in her classes have presented a hand-blocked Karboz to the Women's Faculty building. The hanging is a reproduction on an old prayer rug.

A clock, two lamps and an occasional table were purchased with money from the fund to which the women of the university contributed. A committee composed of Susan Kemper, Gladys Lehr and Alice Hillstrom selected the furniture.

Liberty Imperiled Says Dean Holt

"Danger to American freedom, that freedom we enjoy in our speech and press and entitles us to the right of trial by jury, is real," stated Dr. Edgar A. Holt, Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, in an address over the Municipal University radio program over WOW Monday evening, February 25.

"Dr. Holt pointed out that the high ideals of representative government and individualism are easily forgotten and that an adroit politician like Senator Huey P. Long can lead the people away from the policies of democracy to those of dictatorship.

"We should dedicate ourselves anew to the ideals of our democracy and regard with suspicion those who propose easy panaceas and aggravate racial and religious differences," Dr. Holt declared.

Barb Wins Election! Must Be a Mistake

Kenneth Turner, "most popular man on the campus," was elected Junior class Student Council representative at Friday's election. He polled 15 votes while his opponents, Ray Larsen and Vincent Nelson, received 9 votes each.

Turner is a Barb and is the first of this species to be elected to the Student Council since the Thetas began monopolizing offices in that riotous but ineffectual institution.

Debate Team In State Meet

The Omaha University women's debate team will be engaged in the State debate tournament and three other forensic contests this season, according to an announcement by Dr. Benjamin Boyce, debate coach. Bernice Perlmeter and J. Carroll comprise the team.

On March 5 or 12 the Peru State men's team from Peru State Teachers' college will journey here to debate Omaha's team. The Pacific University men's team, from Forest Grove, Oregon, will engage the squad on March 13. March 20 Morningside College of Sioux City, Ia., will debate the University here.

The Nebraska State Debate Tournament will be held at Nebraska Wesleyan on March 15 and 16.

WOMEN GET POSTS

By MARTIN SPECKTER

Howard Sorensen, '35, was named chairman of the Ma-ie Day Festival committee by the faculty committee on student relations, Dr. Wilfred Payne, chairman, said Wednesday.

The appointment terminated, perhaps, a two weeks' "triangle" fight on the campus, inspired by unlooked for opposition to Greek domination, to age-old traditions, and to political factors.

At its first meeting on Wednesday, February 20, the Council, led by Mary Rigg, senior class president, threw out all petitions and floor nominations on the grounds of political skulduggery. Among the petitions were those of Woodrow Tietz, president of the Council, and Martin Speckter, managing editor of The Gateway.

The Council met daily and the controversial factions were soon apparent. Speaking for the co-eds, Mary Rigg, demanded that women be allowed to run for committee posts. Tietz asserted that by

Drama Group To Give "The Eldest"

The dramatic department will give its first afternoon recital Friday at 4 o'clock, in the auditorium. "The Eldest," a one-act play by Edna Ferber, will be presented before a student audience.

The story involves the trials of a girl who sacrifices her marriage and happiness to care for an invalid mother, a younger sister, and a brother.

In the afternoon cast the leads will be played by Jeanne Ross, '35, and Sylvan Frankel, '38. Others in the cast are Amy Rohacek, '37, Louise Riggs, '38, Norman Wohlner, '36, and Harold Grau, '38.

Two Separate Casts

Friday evening at 8 o'clock, "The Eldest" will again be presented with the use of two separate casts entirely under student direction. Elaine Robertson, '35, and Louise Riggs will direct the first cast, while EdNeil Benson, '38, and Eugenia Anderson, '38, will direct the second cast.

The part of "The Eldest" is played by Charlotte Gillin, '38, who is supported in the first cast by Betty Cathers, '38, Dorris Miller, '38, Louise Riggs, Norman Wohlner, Charles Yeager, '38, and Sylvan Frankel.

In the second cast "The Eldest" is played by Marva Cohn, '38. She is supported by Pearl Lazarus, '38, Elizabeth Marshal, '37, Rosemary Wear, '38, Norman Wohlner, Sylvan Frankel, and Charles Yeager. The music is to be furnished by the music department of the college of fine arts.

Council Wins Time-Wasting Title; Good Time Is Had by All in Boy-Girl Ma-ie Day Scrap

By FRAN NELSON

We stayed away from a good show last Thursday to watch the Student Council in action (inaction), but there are no regrets, for we saw a much better show and saved two bits in the bargain. Furthermore, we had several opportunities to make a few very pert remarks about sex relations and stuff that seems to be bothering the Council at present.

The feds got together in order to take the Ma-ie committee election away from the students because these poor misguided souls would easily fall victims to dire political plots. The gals then framed the guys and refused to accept a vacancy appointment by the chairman, but the boys out-politicked 'em, and got a proxy vote from an absent member who was hanging around kinda close. That settled that, and there were now five of each. Ideal for a basketball game.

Substitution: Payne for Diamond (faculty advisors).

Next came numerous speeches and accusations from both sides, with the chairman waving his arms and deciding all ties; then the gals got mad, picked up their dolls and walked out. When this happened the boys began playing among themselves 'till they all got mad at each other, and then whaddya think happened? Yep, but only four of the gals came back; the fifth probably blew her top.

Everybody started nominating their best enemies 'till they could not think of any more, so all nominations were withdrawn.

Substitution: Taylor for Payne. Some very choice arguifying went on for the next thirty minutes 'till it was unanimously agreed to pass the buck to the faculty Students Relations committee—a conclusion that had been reached exactly twenty-six and one-half hours earlier.

It is rumored that the state legislature is going to investigate the activities of the Student Council, which has made the legislature look like a bunch of amateurs at wasting time—an accomplishment which the legislature jealously guards as its own.

The Department of Speech will sponsor a mock banquet in the University auditorium March 6 at 7 o'clock. Arthur King, '36, will be toastmaster. Members of the student body are invited.

LIBRARY AN AMUSEMENT PARK?

THE problem of maintaining silence in the University library has again cropped up and the solution advanced this time is most strange. The co-operative study plan (whatever it may be) virtually calls for surrendering the library to those who seek to turn it into an amusement park.

Students desirous of studying are to be segregated into four rooms in Joslyn Hall. The logic of such a proposal does not, we must confess, appeal to us. The library was originally set up as a place of study. It has not outlived its usefulness. Such abject servility to those who use the library as an amusement center must be rejected.

Inasmuch as the powers-that-be are intent upon setting aside the rooms in Joslyn Hall, why isn't it possible to turn them into co-operative play rooms? What better method could be devised to segregate the "amusement seekers" from those students who have an inkling as to why the University spends several thousand dollars each year to maintain the library?

"Million in Decade Left to Cornell"—New York Times headline. We'd prefer ours in cash.

EXPANDING THE LIBRARY

THE addition of 7,000 books from the Tabor collection last week brought the number of volumes in the University library to 23,000. Contrasted with the 8,000 books in the library less than four years ago, today's collection is indicative of the progress Omaha university has made in recent years.

The Tabor collection is extremely valuable, for, as Dean Holt says, it provides an opportunity for research work in the fields of government and history. As regards the possession of new books, the University library is in an excellent position. In the past three and one-half years more than 10,000 books of recent publication have been added to the library's collection. The addition of the Tabor collection with its costly old editions, documents, and periodicals parallels the increase in new publications.

As rapidly as finances permit, the University library will be augmented by the addition of books, documents and periodicals, both old and new. The policy of expanding the library augurs well for the advancement of Omaha university for an adequate library is absolute necessity in modern higher education. A good beginning has been made in the past four years. The administration, we hope, will continue the policy of expanding the University library to the point where it will compare favorably with libraries of older and larger middle-western universities.

THE COLLEGE PEACE POLL

THE results of the Student Council's College Peace Poll, which are printed in another column of today's Gateway, proved, if anything, that the reaction of Omaha university students to the questions propounded, are exactly the same as those of students at other American universities. On all five questions the results agreed in toto with those of the Literary Digest Peace Ballot.

The Peace Poll stimulated student interest in the problem of maintaining peace. Numerous groups about the campus discussed the problems raised. Some students were, at least, made aware of the fact that war is a problem to which a great deal of intelligent effort must be applied if it is to be solved.

The Student Council, and its president, Woodrow Tietzort, are to be complimented for undertaking the poll which brought to the attention of the student body one of the most pressing problems of all time and which, if not solved, may destroy what little civilization this world now enjoys.

Newshounds Now Nautical

By MACY BAUM

If you've got flat feet and can't get into the Navy, don't be downhearted, mates—drop into the Gateway office and join the great game of Battleship!

You won't see the world, we admit, but we've heard rumors that the world isn't in such hot shape right now, anyway. But to get back to Battleship. It's really quite a game.

The materials required are: two persons (can be male, female or extension students); two sheets of paper with a lot of squares and silly-looking marks; two pencils (with points, if possible), and one sailor hat to lend atmosphere.

As the struggle opens, the opposing admirals place more and sillier-looking marks on their respective sheets of paper to represent battleships, cruisers and destroyers. Then the embryo Annapolisans start firing shots, i. e., trying to call the squares where the enemy has placed ships. As a vessel is hit the audience cheers and sings "Barnacle Bill, the Sailor," the hittee dances a hornpipe, the hittee grits his teeth and the waves swish merrily. As a fleet is depleted the commander's shots are reduced, which annoys him no little.

The game has a strange effect upon its addicts—as powerful as that of opium, but much more noticeable. You can always recognize a veteran Battleshipper. He stands behind doorways watching for victims, pounces upon innocent passers-by, drags them into the Gateway office, locks the door, and permits them to depart only after they, too, have become a slave to Battleship.

Grades have tobogganed and absences from class have skyrocketed since the introduction of the game, but the only bad effect so far has been the fact that the Battleshippers use up all the copy paper in the Gateway office, and just in case a reporter wanted to write a story he would be under a terrible handicap.

Thru The Keyhole

The only thing that I could find that is plentiful and free is a lot of snow on my boots.... It's sure a hard job to get flivvers started in this kind of weather... but once they start they are just as hard to stop... Up walks Knipprath and says, "Let me see you type without watching the copy".... "There, Nunnah, you made a mistake".... Oh, well, so did Benny.... Life is a bigger burden than ever now that the formal dances are here.

Moucka insists that I remind you once again that he would like to use the library as a study hall.... That is a good thought.... Our library is a madhouse compared to other libraries I have been in.... Peru, for instance (they never have anything to talk about, I guess).... Buxton has been sortamum about Bethaine lately.... he may spill it all soon.

Wonder what Mrs. Wolf would do to Marcia Jackson if she caught her putting lipstick on Karl's face again soon.... accident or otherwise.... It's too bad that cute little Ruth Thompson lives across the river.... but, of course, that shouldn't worry Kozak.... It doesn't make a diff of bitterness to me whether or not they have any gals on the Maie Day committee, just so they are capable, about which I have my doubts.... The boys ought to elect an Indian chieftain to crown the day's activities.

Hold everything.... In rushes some freshy and grabs the phone as if it was a matter of life or death.... being a little inquisitive I asked the reason for the big rush and he politely informs me that his sister just had twins and he is going to call home to find out if he is an uncle or an aunt.... maybe both.... During the heat of the argument in the Council last week, up pops some freshy and says to one of the girls, "You know, you have the mind of a three-year-old".... "Yeh, but I wasn't always smart," was the reply.

They say that the reason Doc Thompson has the athletes do his dirty work is that they can serve his warrants with the least grumbling from the students.... well, that is one way of keeping your popularity, Doc.... The athletes can stand to lose a little, you can't.... Which reminds me that I saw Peary holding hands with Blackstone in the hall the other day.... doggone, I'm all mixed up now; last week I thought it was Tyler.

Joel Thompson was bragging to Harriet about some new fem the other day, to which Harriet remarked, "Well, what has she got that I haven't got?".... "How do I know what you haven't got?" was the reply.... There is one girl in this school who should receive the good graces of everyone on the campus.... she is none other than our congenial Pearl Schaefer, who always has a smile for everyone.... I've never seen her frown at anyone so far and don't suppose she ever will.

Kozak says he figured he would like to suit up for the games last week, anyway.... at least he get's a good seat.

Government and Golf Are Witman's Special Interests

By GEORGE KNIPPRATH

Nominating Shepherd Luther Witman for the column this week: He has a B. A. degree from Ursinus college, Philadelphia, an M. A. degree from Boston university. He has completed two years of graduate work on his Ph. D. at Yale.

Professor Witman came to Omaha University in 1929. He took a two-year leave of absence in 1932, and teaches in the Summer session of the University every year. At present he teaches government courses.

Exclusive of his studies he considers golf as his main interest, followed closely by political science, reading and the movies.

Impresses Listeners

Apropos of the present changes in our governmental system accomplished by President Roosevelt, Professor Witman believes that there is a definite need to bring about a sensible attitude towards nationalism, and that the recent revivals of international rivalry as exemplified by Mussolini in Italy and Hitler in Germany are symptoms of diplomatic complications which have resulted in war in the past.

In appearance he is a dark-haired, quiet-voiced man, wearing a mustache and glasses. In a discussion he expounds his knowledge of the subject thoroughly, and the listener is impressed by his mental agility.

John Ossian, former Omaha University athlete, is coach at the Strahan (Iowa) high school.

Paul Palmantier and Jay Plan-teen, both '34, are working for their master's degree at Nebraska University.

CAGERS TO FINISH SEASON SATURDAY

Omahans Favored to Finish Schedule by Repeating Victory.

By MACY BAUM

Omaha university's cagers will ring down the curtain on their current season Saturday night at the Central high school gym when they meet the Iowa State Teachers of Cedar Falls.

The final contest will mark the close of a successful year that has seen the Cardinals defend their Nebraska Intercollegiate title with an undefeated record and give Omaha a fair start in the North Central loop with wins over South Dakota State and the Iowa State Teachers.

The Redbirds are heavy favorites to add another N. C. win to their string tomorrow night, having already trounced the Tutors on the Iowa court by a 45 to 31 margin earlier in the season. But the Teachers are no set-up quint, and they proved it in the Omaha tussle by taking an 8-3 lead in the first quarter, only the rapid-fire clicking of Omaha's famous "Iowa Trio" enabling the locals to overcome the margin to take a 21-13 lead at the half.

The Iowans' record for this season includes a one-point win over Grinnell, and a 47-38 triumph over Morningside, a team which later trounced South Dakota State. Last week the Tutors gained their second win over Simpson and dropped a close tilt to Coe.

The invaders will be led by Maurice Carr, flashy forward, who has counted 131 points in 12 games and scored 16 points in the Omaha game to tie with Lowell Curtis for top honors.

Starting lineups:

| Omaha | Pos. | Teachers |
|-----------|------|----------|
| Baade | F | Carr |
| Patterson | F | McCabe |
| Wilkinson | C | Stribley |
| Johnk | G | Browner |
| Curtis | G | Stout |

tradition women were prohibited from holding such posts.

"We permit the co-eds to manage the May Queen and attendants' selections. We men should manage the committee appointments."

"We can break tradition," answered Rigg.

"If you do," said Tietzort, "we'll run a man for May Queen."

"We have brains as well as beauty," asserted Rigg. Tietzort denied both assumptions.

The interchange of shots between the senior representative and the Council proxy were the only bits of humor in the entire proceedings, not counting the attempts of the faculty committee, headed by Dr. Wilfred Payne, to find a suitable man for the chairmanship. The Student Council had been instructed to nominate a "male student, competent, without any political tie-up, and acceptable to the student body."

Others named on the committee were:

Senior, Ethel Jane Scanlan; junior, Kenneth Turner; sophomore, Virginia Lee Long and Martin Speckter; and freshman, Wade Knapp.

Pat, Wink, Curt In Final Game

When the gun sounds at the end of the game in the Central high gym tomorrow night it will mark the end of Omaha university's most famous and best-liked athletic group—"The Iowa Trio."

Lloyd Patterson, Marlin Wilkinson and Lowell Curtis are the members of the trio, and since their arrival at Omaha four years ago they have been the idols of Cardinal cage fans.

The trio were acquainted before they came to Omaha. Wilkinson and Patterson had started playing together in grade school at Henderson, their home town, and later starred on the high school quint. Curtis played on the nearby Strahan prep team, and the Strahan-Henderson games were outstanding events of high school play in that region.

The trio teamed up to take the intra-mural crown in their freshman year, and that same season were members of the Omaha varsity that won 20 straight games and the university's first N. I. A. A. championship. Since then they have brought two more Nebraska titles to the school, losing only to Chadron the 1932-33 race.

Curtis Leading Card Point Race

Captain Lowell Curtis, forward, with an average of 12 points per game, is leading the Omaha University basketball team scoring for the season. His total for the thirteen games is 156, 31 points ahead of Marlin Wilkinson, another forward, who has a total of 125 scored in thirteen games. Wilkinson has an average of over 9 points and is only 4 tallies ahead of Patterson, the other member of the famous "Iowa Trio."

Carl Baade, regular forward, has a total of 64 points for the thirteen games, and Harold Johnk, center, is fifth with 24 tallies.

Season's scoring:

| | Games | Points |

Faculty Women to Buy Silverware

The Faculty Women's club will buy a silverware set for the Women's Faculty building with the proceeds from the benefit bridge which was held Wednesday evening, February 13, according to Miss Ruth Diamond, chairman of the event.

One of the main attractions of the evening was the presentation of door prizes. President W. E. Sealock, Dr. Claude W. Stimson, Dr. V. Royce West, and Mrs. Earl James were among the winners.

Approximately 125 guests and faculty members attended.

Cardinal Frosh Win from Dana

The Cardinal Frosh nosed out the Dana Vikings by a 26-23 count Wednesday in a wild and rough prelude to the South Dakota-Omaha fray.

The outcome of the loose passing and stumbling orgy was in the balance until the final gun. The lead seesawed back and forth and there was never more than a three-point difference in the score.

Referee Paul Davis called a total of twenty-five fouls during the melee, thirteen on Dana and twelve on Omaha. Brown, regular freshman guard, was chased early in the second quarter, and Jewell, Dana center, followed suit early in the third.

Wolf's under-basket play and Bolte's under-hand flips kept the otherwise listless Cards in the running. Hurd, Dana guard, formerly one of Coach Adams' prize Bunnies, glided through the shaky Omaha defense time and time again to carry off the high-scoring honors for the evening, hitting the net for eleven points.

The victory gave the Omaha Freshmen an even break on the series balance sheet as the Vikings eked out a 23-22 decision over the Omahans at Dana a month ago.

OMAHA QUINT DROPS PAIR OF NORTH CENTRAL GAMES TO SOUTH DAKOTANS

State Wins Overtime Thriller by 36-35

Score reads: South Dakota State, 32; Omaha, 29.

Clock shows 17 seconds to play. Wilkinson makes a basket and is fouled. Is poised for the shot that will send the Cards into a tie. The crowd is tense, watchful, hopeful, quiet. "Wink" sinks the free throw. Sends the Omahans into their first over-time game of the season. Sends the crowd into a frenzy that lasts for the next five minutes.

The coaches agree on a five-minute over-time period. There goes the whistle for the start of the over-time period that will give the Cardinals their third lose or their win. Patterson gets the ball, dribbles the entire length of the floor, and puts Omaha ahead. This seems safe enough, but Diehl, Jackrabbit forward, who is inserted into the line-up just before the end of the regulation game, makes good his two gift shots, sinks an underbasket shot to give the Redbirds and their followers a setback—36-35.

During the first half of the game both teams are cautious. Omaha manages at one point in the game to garner a 10-point lead, but when Baade is jerked in favor of Pearey the Cards see their lead shrink, and as the half ends they are ahead, 18 to 17.

The State team is paced by Bartling, who keeps the visitors in the running in the first half with 13 points. But it is Diehl, with his six needed points, who turns the tide in favor of the Dakotans. Wilkinson tops the Cards with 12 tallies, and Curtis plays his usual sparkling game and earns 9 points.

This win for the Jackrabbits avenges an early season 39-33 defeat handed them on their own floor. It is the third lose in the North Central for Omaha this year.

Measles Hit Chadron, Contest Is Cancelled

The two Chadron Normal games scheduled for last Friday and Saturday were forfeited to the Omaha quint when the members of the Eagles squad were quarantined with the measles.

As a result, Omaha, heavy favorites to take the two games handily, closed their N. I. A. A. season with 8 wins and no defeats to capture the title for the second consecutive year. The Cards will close their basketball season tomorrow night when they meet the Iowa State Teachers team at the Central gym.

Rangy Coyotes Take Speedy Tilt, 33 to 28

By JOE GREENSTONE

A Wednesday night capacity crowd sees the freshman team win their preliminary game from Dana and have hopes of seeing a double victory for the Omahans. They don't forget that the South Dakota Coyotes handed the Cardinals a defeat at Vermillion early in the season.

Here comes the two teams. Those Coyotes are big boys. The Omahans look like midgets; only Johnk can compare in height with them.

From the first tip-off the crowd senses a fast game. Wilkinson is fouled and makes good his free throw. Buck, South Dakota forward, makes good his gift shot to tie the score. Curtis makes a free throw, but the Dakotans connect with two baskets to go ahead 5 to 2. The passing of both teams is fast and sure. Baade puts in an under-the-basket shot, and Patterson sinks one of his spectacular side shots to put the Cards in front. The crowd goes wild. But this is the last time the Omahans are to lead the Coyotes.

Although the Cards, with Wilkinson leading the way, manage to make it an exciting, nip-and-tuck affair, the Voyotes are a bit too big and pull away to a 20 to 15 score at the half. The Omaha boys seem to be bothered by the close guarding of the Dakotans.

Then that second half. The Redbirds are first on the draw when Curtis sinks a gift shot, but Hsley sinks his third field goal of the game. Omaha, led by Captain Curtis, then pulls up to tie the score at 22 all. The crowd is on its feet yelling for the Cards to continue their scoring spree. The big boys of the Dakotas are bewildered by the Cards' sensational scoring attack.

But it doesn't last long, for Hsley goes on his own scoring rampage with 10 points that puts the South Dakota quintet ahead, 33 to 28, as the game ends.

Hsley, with 16 points, and Buck, with 5 tallies, are the mainstays of the Coyotes, while Curtis was the highlight of the Omaha attack.

chemistry, but it will be supplemented with astronomy, meteorology and geology. The second semester, under Dr. Garlough, will cover the biological sciences. The lectures will be strictly supplementary and will not include any of the material in the text. Detailed lectures will be given on such subjects as growth, x-ray, heredity or the uses of wood.

"We are seeking the utilitarian ideal in this field and only as the last resort will we justify the existence of this course on a cultural basis," stated Dr. Garlough.

In the biology laboratory the common forms of plant, insects and birds will be dissected. The laboratory will deal largely with physics the first half of the course.

Clinic Draws 118 For Instruction

At the music clinic held at the school last Saturday, February 23, there were 118 students from local and out-of-town high schools. The clinic, for the audition and criticism of the students' voices, was directed by Mr. Martin Bush, head of the Music department, Mrs. Carol Pitts and Mr. Henry Cox.

"The applied music clinic was a huge success," according to Mr. Bush. "Many fine voices were heard and inspiring instrumental numbers were constructively criticized."

The selection, buying and preparation of the right kinds of Turkish tobaccos for making Chesterfield Cigarettes is a business in itself . . .

Handling Turkish tobacco in the Liggett & Myers modern factory at Smyrna, Turkey.

WE have buyers in all the tobacco markets of Turkey and Greece, including Xanthi, Cavalla, Smyrna and Samsoun.

And at Smyrna Chesterfield has built the most modern tobacco plant in the Near East.

Here the spicy, aromatic Turkish leaf is sorted and graded under the eyes of our own tobacco men.

Then it is put away to age in its own climate for two years or more to make it milder and better-tasting.

When you blend and cross-blend the right kinds of aromatic Turkish tobacco with mild ripe home-grown tobaccos as we do in Chesterfield you have . . .

*the cigarette that's milder
the cigarette that tastes better*
